

It's hard to straighten in the brain that Spring term is over. We haven't really seen any Spring yet! When we return we return to the start of the Summer term. Here's hoping we get a good summer this year. There is lots of exciting learning planned for the Summer term, so I am already getting excited.

But enough of that, what have we been up to this week? It has been a mixed up week with all sorts of everything going on. We have walked to the church, and once again the children behaved beautifully for our Easter Service. We have watched the fantastic performance by Years 3 and 4. We have worked on our St Edmunds statue, and fitted in some Easter craft. We have looked at conjunction/connectives in English and arrays in Maths. So all in all a very busy week.

How are those beans doing? Ours in the classroom haven't done anything and I understand that some of you have had the same problem. If, like Oscar S, yours is growing, please could you continue with your bean diary. It would be good to see these after the Easter holiday and compare with one another. I may set another one over Easter and see if anything happens so we have one to watch in the classroom. A bad batch of seeds I think!

For Easter holiday home learning I haven't set anything particular (well, other than the bean diary.) but heartily encourage you to; read, work on your times tables, practise your joined up handwriting, work on your maths targets, play outside, make dens, go on long walks, make some lovely family memories, and most of all enjoy the rest.

I am looking forward to seeing you all, and hearing all about your holiday when we return on Tuesday 17th April. Please remember that my door is always open if there is anything you want to discuss.
